"FaceRig" or "FaceRig PRO," both of which are free to download. 2 days ago And by the way, even though I am not a paid subscriber to the service, using “Facerig” I have created a number of amazing works. Facerig is an app which aims to enable anyone with a webcam to create personalized images of themselves. They say that FaceRig uses “sophisticated facial recognition technology” to identify. Facerig is a Mac OS X application for making animated masks. It records every expression, gesture or movement made in front of a webcam while you're. While you can use your webcam to control it, it's best used with a stylus. Would like to know which faces are the best to use for the app. If you don't want to be limited to just faces, would rather have a portrait. Has to be A3 or bigger. The creator of the app, Adam Riggs, has promised to work on a version compatible with iOS, but that's been a little slow coming. - Free FaceRig Download - Create animated portraits with FaceRig
