In my main.py: from app import app if __name__ == '__main__': app.run() I am very new to celery, and I am trying to understand the flow of the process. Do I run the main.py script, which starts celery and then starts the task.py, or should I instead run the task.py and then celery? A: Normally you can run the task from the main module: from app import app app.start_celerybeat() app.tasks.do_something() As per the celery documentation: Nuclear imaging in osteoporosis. Osteoporosis is a disease characterized by low bone mineral density and a risk of fractures. High-resolution computed tomography (CT) of the spine is an important tool in the evaluation of the patient with an osteoporotic fracture, to assess the likelihood of a stress fracture.
