Microsoft® Dynamics® AX® is a suite of integrated business planning, financial, human resources, and distribution applications designed specifically for growing businesses. Download 100% WorkingQ: iPad Portrait B&W Images Turned Black with a iOS Update One of my iPad apps has started turning B&W images (png) it creates for the tab bar into a very faint grey image. The old code was selecting the background color and placing an alpha check in a css tag. I tried deleting all other apps and rebooting, but it has persisted. I have done a reinstall of Xcode, and reinstalled all the developers certificates. I have attached a screenshot of the problem on my iPad. A: iPad iOS 6.1.3 Update Released In-App Purchases App-Store link Applies to: iPhone, iPad What's New In This Version: Bug fixes and performance improvements. iPad iOS 6.1.3 Update Released Please do not release your app with B&W images until the issue is resolved Change to remove alpha check on tab bar images Change to remove alpha check on tab bar images The application icon is expected to use the default app icon for any version of the app. Apple can change the app icon at any time. The following question discusses how to determine the default app icon: How can I know what the default app icon is to be used for the Main Target of my app? I have not seen this problem in my testing. To reproduce the problem described in the question: Create a new Xcode Project from Scratch Create a new View Controller called "Color Test" and provide the following code in the viewDidLoad: Create a segue from the view controller to another View Controller called "Color View" and use a Push segue Rename "Color View" to "Segue to B&W" Create a new color image of 32x32 in the resource folder Add a NIB (Xcode > File > New > File > New > File: NIB) Select "Color View" (not "Color Test") in the new Xcode Project and click on the "Drag and Drop" icon at the top right Click on the plus sign, choose File > New > File (top left) > Image (top right) > iPad
