Details If you own a 3D TV, you probably have a large collection of videos that cannot take advantage of this device's capabilities. ImTOO 3D Movie Converter is a straightforward and intuitive application that can help you convert 2D videos to 3D, as well as encode existing three-dimensional movies to other formats. It offers a wizard-based interface that guides you through the conversion process but does not include any video editing functions. Convert standard clips to 3D The application can employ multiple methods to create videos suitable for 3D-capable devices. For example, it can apply a stereoscopic visual effect by encoding two images using red and cyan filters. Additionally, it is possible to duplicate the video stream and display the created tracks side-by-side. You can modify 3D depth, swap the left and right images and alter the output resolution. Convert 3D movies to standard 2D formats If you have obtained a three-dimensional video but do not have a device capable of playing it, you can convert it to 2D. You simply need to load it and specify the source formatting, and then have the application automatically remove one of the duplicated images. Encode videos to various file formats If you want to ensure the created clip can be played on specific devices, you can select one of the many included output profiles. These are specially designed to be compatible with particular mobile phones, gaming consoles or online hosting services. However, while you can edit these presets, you cannot save them to custom profiles. As a result, you need to perform the same alterations each time you want to convert videos using the same encoder settings. Overall, ImTOO 3D Movie Converter is a simple wizard-based application that can be used to convert clips to and from 3D formats. It is well-suited for novices but does not include even the most basic video editing features.Q: Python 3.5: Convert string to list, pipe it as argument, convert it back to string I have a file "data.dat" that is a list. I'm trying to pipe it as an argument to a function, like dat | myFunc Python will then convert that argument to a list, but back to a string when I call it as myFunc(dat) How can I do this 09e8f5149f
