The world is changing around us faster than ever before and technology is driving change in every aspect of life, making this the most exciting time for business. THE ROAD AHEAD - WHAT ARE THE CHANGES FOREVER? ... The new economy is a smarter economy. Businesses, especially the most innovative, are capturing the huge opportunities and changes in the space as they transform the way work gets done, and as they drive customer-centricity. To thrive in the new economy, businesses must be reimaged as digital ecosystems that create customer value across extended value-chains. This will require businesses to change their thinking, processes and culture. New paradigms, business models and the sheer scale of the revolution are part and parcel of this incredible change. The value chain, demography and demands of the customer are changing and so are the ways technology can help them in their journey. But change creates disruption. New paradigms, business models and the sheer scale of the revolution are part and parcel of this incredible change. Technology, being at the forefront of change, is playing a role in the road ahead for all businesses. And, with this, comes a myriad of new complexities, shifts and disruptions. This is because technology has become a central part of the modern workforce. It has become a part of the human experience, changing the way we communicate, shop, consume and work. But the widespread adoption of technology, and its centrality to modern life, brings with it greater complexity and disruption. For example, the way we communicate with our friends has gone through a radical transformation with a rise in the use of mobile devices and social media. the way we consume products
