I have a loop: for file in $files; do done Suppose there is a file named "file1.txt" on the $files array (the $files array changes as the script is executed). How can I check for the existence of the file before doing anything? A: Use if statement. for file in $files; do if [-f $file]; then fi done Atlanta Falcons GM Thomas Dimitroff said that he expects running back Devonta Freeman will play against the New York Giants on Thursday. Freeman was seen wading through a river of in-game issues on Sunday, as he finished with only 10 carries for 25 yards and was out-gained by teammate Tevin Coleman for the second straight week. Freeman had his lowest output of the year in Week 13 and there were also questions about whether he could hold up for an entire season, given that he played through a high ankle sprain last year. "He's doing fine," Dimitroff said on Monday. "I can't give you an exact timetable, but I anticipate that he will play." Freeman played with a cast on his right ankle in last week's 20-16 win over the Houston Texans. "We did what we had to do," Dimitroff said. "He would have had to have done his rehab at home and he'd be able to be out there in a week or so." Freeman's value could be lowered if he wasn't
