I have a website that I'd like to remove the security warning messages from the chrome browser about "This page is not secure." I have my own certificate, and it's trusted by all of my browsers (the warning does not appear in any browsers), however it's still showing the warning. The warning has been there for a long time, and I'm not actively working on the site right now, but for some reason, Chrome is still trying to secure my site with https. Does anyone have any idea how to get this working? A: As part of the certificate revocation check, browsers like Chrome will check if the certificate being offered is signed by a certificate authority that was previously trusted. It won't check the validity of the certificate. Checking the SSL Strength, etc, is done by an
